Teacher Resource Sites: Professional Development

weareteachers.com
Features a large collection of lesson plans by subject, blogs, and instructional videos.

ergobservatory.info/ejdirectory.html
Education Research Global Observatory. Browse open access, peer reviewed education journals.

educationworld.com
A catch-all site for both new and veteran teachers. From information on the hiring process, to a catalogue of lesson plans and new uses for technology in the classroom.

scholastic.com/bookwizard
Has a wide variety of resources, notably, a searchable index for books to use in the classroom categorized by grade and reading levels.

corestandards.org
The official site for the Common Core State Standards. Find out your state's standards for math and English literacy.

smithsonianeducation.org
Lesson plans, resources, and state standards are searchable and organized by subject. Also great for virtual field trips!

prometheanplanet.com/en-us
Interact with other teachers on this massive whiteboard community—trade tips and more.

edutopia.org
Articles on the latest teaching trends as well as free, downloadable guides on everything from managing a classroom to fundraising.

donorschoose.org
A great site that connects teacher requests for materials and projects directly to donors.

aft.org/yourwork/teachers
The site for the American Federation of Teachers union has classroom material, but primarily focuses on trends and news in education and professional development.
